DECISION TO PAY ALLOWANCE ON ORE CARS IS BIG VICTORY

Pittsburg Steel Co. Favored
by Inter-State Commerce Commission Finding

RELATES TO MONESSEN TRADE

What is regarded as a big victory in industrial circles has been won by the Pittsburg Steel Company through a decision of the Inter-State Commerce Commission awarding a sum approximating $14,000 to the Steel company from the Pittsburg & Lake Erie Railroad. The point was whether or not the Steel company's railroad at its Monessen plant should be held as a common carrier and if so, whether it should be paid the usual allowance of $2.25 a car or more. By the decision the plant railroad, known as the Monessen Southwestern, must be paid the allowance.

The case dates back to 1911. During a ten months period ending April 1, 1914, it is asserted the Pittsburg & Lake Erie failed to pay the fur-nace allowance of $2.25 per car on 6,350 cars of ore from the inter-change track at Monessen. For this number the Pittsburg Steel company claimed the usual allowance.

Previous to the present case it is maintained other railroads used only as plant facilities have been declared as common carriers and by this made to come under the allowance rate.

INVENTION OF DAWSON MAN DUE TO ACCIDENT

L. L. Parkhill, of Dawson, a brakeman on the Pittsburg & Lake Erie, has secured a patent in the United States and Canada for a system of signaling by means of which any part of the longest freight train is in instant communication with the engineer. Mr. Parkhill was at work on a train that backed into the coal tipple at Darr mine and put it out of commission for two weeks. Had he been able to signal the engineer the accident could have been avoided. The mishap set him to thinking and he worked and experimented with his patent for about two years.

FOUND DEAD ON THE RAILROAD

Body of William Walters of Bentleyville Badly Mangled and Cut

CORONER IS INVESTIGATING

William Walters, a miner, living at Bentleyville and a resident of that section ever since the Ellsworth mines were opened, was found dead Friday morning on tracks of the Monongahela & Washington railroad at the Acme tippie at Weaver near Bentleyville. He had evidently been run down by a train. His body was frightfully mangled. He had been decapitated, one arm was cut off and he was otherwise cut up.

He had gone from home Thursday evening with the intention, as he stated to see some men at Weaver. That was the last his wife saw of him alive. When he had not returned by 5:30 Friday morning she started out to hunt him. As she was going by the tippie, near where the body was found the night watchman saw her. He asked her what she wanted. She told him she was looking for her husband. The watchman assumed that the man found was her husband. The woman was taken to where the body had been taken. She identified the remains.

Walters recently served a term in jail for violation of the liquor laws. He leaves a wife and about five children. Coroner Heffran with Special Court Officer Mitchell went to Bentleyville to inquire into the man's death.

A large delegation of the 1916 graduating class of the Southwestern State Normal School left California early Thursday morning for Washington City and other points of National interest.

STRIKE CONSIDERED BY MINERS DELEGATES

Motion Put That Entire District be Called Out—Scale
Committee Reports—Operators Say Wage
Scale is Good One

With a motion before them to have the international executive board call a general strike of coal miners in the Pittsburgh district, miners' delegates from District No. 5, United Mine Workers of America, adjourned yesterday afternoon until today, after a conference between the miners' wage scale committee and the wage scale committee of the Pittsburgh Coal Operators' Association had adjourned indefinitely.

The stand taken by the operators' association, the miners' wage scale committee reported, made it impossible for the conference to continue. The operators, the committee reported, took the stand that the miners, by repudiating the general contract of District No. 5 repudiated the New York contract which was signed at a conference of operators and union representatives several weeks ago. The operators say it is now necessary to enter into negotiations for a new contract. Delegates to the convention, however, say they will not enter into negotiations for a new contract, asserting that it is not within their power to repudiate the New York agreement, which is an international agreement and not for a district convention to repudiate. The miners say they want the New York agreement and have no fault to find with it, but their protest against the general contract of District No. 5, which was signed by the local wage scale committee and which compels the miners to pay 5 cents a day for safety lamps and places a penalty upon them for "dirty" coal.

The operators issued a statement Friday night saying the miners in this district, by the contract they have repudiated, were granted a greater advance than that given the miners in any other district.

GOT ANIMAL; CAN'T MAKE IDENTIFICATION

Monongahela People Want to Know What "Thing" is That Looks Like a Cross Between an Opossum and a Kangaroo—On Display Now

"Does it bite" and "what is it" are questions that all Monongahela is asking concerning an animal which arrived this week in a banana barrel from the south. With the "thing" which is being displayed in the store window of Rene Landefeld are nine young.

The animal isn't exactly a man eater, but appears to be a cross between an opossum and a kangaroo, only it is tiny like a rat. It is brown like an opossum and has a sharp nose and protruding eyes. It has strong rear legs and small front ones like a kangaroo. A peculiar feature about it is that it carries its young hanging about its body. It has been seen many times to grab one of the little mites and fling it on its back where it stuck firmly.

Joe O'Della, a fruit dealer, was opening a barrel of bananas Thursday evening when he came upon the peculiar animal and its brood of nine young. He was frightened and was on the point of killing it when Landefeld happened along and finally succeeded in capturing it alive.

COMMISSIONERS TAKE RIDE ON- BREWERY TRUCK THEN EXPLAIN

County Commissioners Hill, Barnum and Watson and Constable H. K. Sarver experienced a rather unusual incident one day this week while enroute from Washington to Monongahela City. After arriving at Finleyville on the train the party was obliged to wait a few minutes for a street car to carry them to their destination. Presently a butcher's truck came along and when the driver asked where they were going, they replied to Monongahela. He offered them to ride, which offer was accepted. The party climbed in and rode to Mingo junction. While waiting there a large brewery truck hove in view and at the invitation of the driver the party climbed aboard and finished the trip to Monongahela. While on the way, the pastor of the church of which one of the men is a member noticed the four seated in the truck and anxiously inquired as to the reason they should be hauled around in such a conveyance. All took the experience as a joke. They report an enjoyable trip except for stiff and sore muscles.

showed the total rainfall to be 1.04 inches.

THE PRACTICE OF USURY.

Small workers express concern about the growth of usury. This is an age of hard money. Many people are not only the question whether there is enough money to pay the immediate bills. The necessity of accumulating capital or making provision for misfortune never occurs to them. Hence the "loan shark" through whose intervention only is the family able to tide over its periods of special distress. He is a despot controlling more destinies than is often realized. After a household gets in his debt, he grasps a large share of its total income. His interest return is far in excess of that to be secured in legitimate business, says the New Castle Herald.

Of course people who live from hand to mouth can never get a low interest rate. The losses of the business are too many. Usury is the penalty visited on thriftlessness. These losses have to be charged up to the honest poor who mean to pay and do. They carry many dead beats on their backs.

A well conducted loan business will discriminate carefully between borrowers. The man who drinks and gambles is never entitled to credit. If his family suffers, the loan should be made to the wife or children if they are responsible. If not, charity is the only way out. With dead beats and ne'er-do-wells eliminated, there should be good money in loaning to the honest poor at 1 per cent a month.

No regulation of interest rates by law amounts to much. The business is done out of sight and after dark. One man's evidence about it is apt to be as good as another's and it is next to impossible to prove anything. In the city of Boston $50,000 has practically been raised to establish credit unions to loan to the poor at fair interest. Citizens of the Hebrew race, whose people have been so often accused of practicing usury, have been prominent in this effort to check a vile practice. It is needed charity and a very worthy one.

SEEK GOOD WILL.

Engineers and trainmen on the Baltimore & Ohio have been instructed to reduce noise and smoke to a minimum during the summer season, when the windows of homes in the sections through which the locomotives pass are open because of the heat. This will be cheering news to every one who has been annoyed by loud and excessive whistling. It will be a great deal more cheering when the instructions are carried out, says the Uniontown Herald.

Heat of summer, reinforced by noises which are increased by open windows and accentuated by the smoke which the open windows receive, all conspire to make sleep an impossibility for those who live close to the tracks.

A greater consideration for the public is being manifested in this direction as in many others. The railroads have found that it pays best to have public sentiment with them. It's a business proposition, pure and simple, although it is placed upon grounds which sound more flowery. There is such a thing as good will. It is a tangible asset and the railroads are more zealous now to secure it than they used to be when they had more license and abused it.

A church endeavor that fills a need is that of the weekly bake sale conducted by numerous societies. Holding them has become somewhat of a custom and it some times seems hard to get past without investing, but where could tastier food be procured cheaper with less chance of containing improprieties than at one of them. The funds from the sale are for good purposes so a good work is enticed.

It is too early to venture predictions in regard to summer Chautauques at other points, but there is a noticeable activity now that indicates simply this, that there are to be no repetitions of last summer's disasters anywhere if they can be prevented. Charleroi people are mere lookers-on this year. They don't have to trouble themselves about ways and means of raising several hundred dollars to pay entertainers and lecturers and therefore can sit tight and enjoy what fun there is to be enjoyed. So far the Chautauqua business has not proven a very great success as a financial venture, unless for the company selling the talent. However the idea contains possibilities, undoubtedly. One of the possibilities with some appeal is that of a home Chautauqua with home talent furnishing the entertainment and home lecturers doing the lecturing.

GINGLES' JINGLES

OUR FRIEND.

There is a little maid we know who never argues, who will never scrap and never gets in bad, she's at peace with all the world, cares not what at her is hurried, you will never see her angry—never sad. When her neighbors start to quarrel, she never listens, never cares a snap about what they may say; she's too busy right at home, to disturb her peaceful dome, or to cloud the sunshine of a happy day. All the world to her is pleasant and inviting, she is never out of sorts and raising Cain; there's no chance to start a row, makes no difference when or how you may undertake the job—it's all in vain. We have always found her happy, always pleasant, not disturbed by anything may come to pass; always in a cheerful mood, never harsh and never rude—she's an ideal dispositioned, clever lass. Yes, we've known her many years, have seen her often, never once has she complained to us at all, she's a nifty little maid, and her charms will never fade—she's our neighbor's little girl's rag baby. Levin X. Gingles

WESTMINSTER GUILD MEETS AND PRESENTS GOOD PROGRAM

The Westminster Guild of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church held an interesting meeting Friday evening in the Sunday School room of the church. Miss Mamie Rockwell the president gave the plans for the summer work. Two papers were read, one by Miss Nell Pieper on "Home Missions a National Force," and another by Mrs. Arthur Miksch on "Home Missions a Reclaiming Force." Both papers were very suggestive regarding present day activities. The program was introduced with a solo by Miss Elma Collins. Mrs. Thomas Barger and Miss Bethel Bowman played a duet. A pleasing number was a reminiscence talk given by Miss Nell Ryland, who has just returned to her home here from the Maryland College where she is a student. It was brought out that Miss Ryland had received high honor in her school, being elected governor of the student body, that being the highest office any student can fill. During the social hour Miss June Swan said goodbye to the guild girls preparatory to leaving for her home in Indiana, Pa.

A FEARLESS PHYSICIAN

Such a physician recently remarked: "The wonderful power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over diseases of women is not because it is a stimulant, nor because it is a palliative, but simply because it contains the very elements needed to tone up the female system and strengthen the depleted organism." Of course that is so otherwise it could not succeed as it has.

MUCH INTEREST FELT IN COMING FRATERNITY DANCE

Personal Question.
A party of strangers were visiting at the college. It was in the late fall, and the air was crisp and cold. One of the members of the party, a charming young woman, was escorted through the grounds by a learned but absent-minded professor. Suddenly two members of the track team, accounted for their sport, passed. "It's dreadfully cold," remarked the young woman, with a dainty shiver, as she gazed after the runners, "to be without stockings." The professor's mind, deep in contemplation of the fourth dimension, was attracted by the sound of the girl's voice. "Then why," he asked absently, "did you leave them off?"—Youth's Companion.

COMMISSIONER WISSER AIDED, SAYS DAUGHTER

Dravosburg Official Relieved of Distressing Catarrhal Affections

Mrs. Wm. Kerfoot recently made the following statement regarding the benefits her father, Henry Wisser, street commissioner of Dravosburg Pa. received from Tanlac, the master medicine.

"Yes," said Mrs. Kerfoot, "I came to give this statement about my father's experience with Tanlac. He was troubled terribly with catarrh of the head and stomach and he doctored for it for years. He always complained in the morning of a fullness of his head and said he didn't feel like he had enough energy to commence his day's work. He seldom ever ate breakfast, as he suffered from a sickening sensation which he attributed to the accumulations of catarrhal mucus in his throat.

"He also complained of headaches, and coughed continually throughout some of the forenoons. His sleep became impaired and he had been forced to get out of bed in order to breathe comfortably. These choking sensations troubled him some during the day time too.

"I read about Tanlac and I just determined he should try it at my expense. I bought the medicine and asked him to take it. At first, he was a bit skeptical as he had failed to obtain relief through other medicines he had taken. I persuaded him to try Tanlac, though and he is now very glad that he took my advice.

"The accumulations in his throat have disappeared, his appetite for breakfast has improved, and he is generally so much better. He said the other day that he is feeling like a new man and I am so glad that the medicine has helped him. I believe that in a very short time, if he continues to take Tanlac his catarrh will be permanently cured. I gladly recommend this wonderful remedy on his behalf."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine that helped Commissioner Wisser and thousands of others, is sold here by Pipers Pharmacy, where it can now be had.

AN EXPERIMENT

The commission man had remarked that most of the evil manifested in a man's character resulted from an imperfect realization of the defect on the part of the man himself. He had a habit of tarowing off little germs of thought like that.

You mean that conviction of sin must come before repentance," said the patriarch, whose weakness was "being people," but they meant "That is the name of the neighbor of mine, back in Iowa," he continued. "Did you tell you about Zephaniah Comstock?"

"Yes," answered a chorus of sisters. The commission man added, "Very often."

"Then I'll tell you again for fear you might forget," said the patriarch. "Zephaniah Comstock, as I said, was a neighbor of mine, that is to say there were only three farms between us. He was one of those men whose mouths seem to be drawn across their faces in a stretch line with a fire ribbon pen, and he had what you might call the financial nose."

"He was wealthy for those days and by the community's standard of wealth and there wasn't a better equipped farm or fatter and better-cared-for stock than his in three counties, but he was about as stungy mean as they ever make 'em to his womenfolk. They didn't have a decent dud to their names hardly, let alone any sort of convenience for making the housework easy or anything to make the house attractive. There were just the two of 'em—Mrs Comstock and her daughter Sarah—and they did the cooking, churning, ironing, washing, baking and sewing for the whole layout, including four small kids and two hired men. But if Mrs Comstock wanted a patent churn, a dress pattern, a bolt of sheeting or anything beyond the barest necessities, it was like pulling teeth to get 'em out of Zephaniah. Those women just dogged it from early till late with makeshifts and worn-out materials, but if there was any late improved farm machinery on the market or a new food for cattle Zephaniah wasn't happy till he got it."

"It had gone on that way for years, when a certain Mrs. Witterman stopped off there one morning and stayed to dinner. She was an old schoolmate of Mrs Comstock's and had just moved into our section of the country. Well, she naturally expected that there would be what they call a company dinner, but there wasn't. There was fat fried pork and potatoes and boiled greens and all the dessert was squash pie. This was set out on an old, frayed red-and-white checkered tablecloth, and there wasn't a piece of plated ware on the table. It seems to me that Mrs Comstock wept about it on her old friend's bosom when the men had gone out to the fields again. She said that Zephaniah wasn't stingy at heart, but that he didn't quite realize how the house looked, 'being as he never visited'."

"Mrs. Witterman went away with the firm intention of bringing Zephaniah to a realization of his cussedness. She brought the matter up under the head of general business at the sewing circle the next week. They had quite a discussion over it and the result of it was that Mrs Witterman made a second visit to Mrs Comstock. "She got there about two o'clock and found Mrs Comstock over her tubs. As soon as she had got her breath she imparted the cheering information that the whole blessed sewing circle was going to break in on her about supper time with its husbands, as a little surprise party. Mrs. Comstock turned pale and fell back into a rocking chair—a thing she didn't often do."

"My dear, there isn't a thing to eat in the house, except just what we always have," she said. "Not so much as a glass of jelly or anything. Not a decent white tablecloth, even. Zephaniah always says he doesn't believe in fixings and foolishness and—"

"Cheer up," says Mrs. Witterman, "I know just what to do. I was all fixed for some company that didn't come today and I'll just drive back and bring over what I've got and a few dishes and things at the same time. It won't take me more than an hour."

"It didn't, for the reason she had 'em all packed and ready. As soon as she got back she turned up her dress skirt and rolled up her sleeves and pitched in, and by the time the surprise party arrived supper was ready for 'em."

"That table was a sight. It groaned. The sewing circle had been busy, and there were seventeen different kinds of pies, cakes and preserves; all in the gayest and most glittering china and glass dishes. There were two of the fanciest lamps blazing their light over cold sliced ham, beef, chicken and heaven knows what; there were decorated plates, snowy damask napkins and tablecloth; there were pickles and beaten biscuit and balls of butter and shining silver. It was about as gaudy and mouth-watering a show as ever happened. And just as they were sitting down Zephaniah came in from the field in his shirt sleeves. If he didn't come to a realization of his shortcomings then!"

"Reformed, did he?" said the commission man.

"Reformed nothing!" said the patriarch. "He just sat down and ate like a hog."

His Luck. "How did your young friend succeed in his efforts to be a policeman?"

"Failed utterly; could not even succeed in arresting attention."

HE KNEW WHEN TO ESCAPE

Story Teller Made His Little Contribution to Gathering, and Then Left Hurriedly.

Story telling was in progress in the village pub, and the next in turn was a railway plate-layer. Round him gathered an expectant audience.

"It was just such a night as this," he began, "bright and clear, with a touch of frost. I was going down the line, when I saw before me, lying right across the rails, a great beam. For a moment my heart stood still. Then a distant rumble warned me that the midnight mail was approaching. With a great effort I flung myself between the obstruction and the line, and the great train passed unharmed."

There was a thoughtful silence after he had finished speaking. Then somebody said:

"If you couldn't lift the beam, how did the train get over it?"

"Yes," another interposed, "and if you flung yourself between the obstruction and the express, why didn't you get killed?"

"Both questions are easily answered," said the plate-layer, sidling towards the door. "The obstruction was a moonbeam, and I jumped forward so that my shadow took its place. Then—"

He got outside just in time.—London Tit-Bits.

CARRYING TWINSHIP TOO FAR

Elder Brother Protested Against the Accuracy in Duplicate Careers.

They were twin sisters, six years old. They ate, drank, slept, worked and played like twins. Their careers so far had been almost identical. They had a brother, eight, who looked down upon them with the superior wisdom and experience of his two extra years.

One morning all three were walking to school together. The sidewalks and streets were for the most part covered with ice and snow. Making navigation quite difficult even for strong, young pedestrians. It was too early for the sun or father to have cleared off the pavements.

Suddenly one of the twins slipped and fell solidly to the sidewalk. No sooner had she accomplished this graceful descent than the other one did likewise.

"Aw, just because she lost a tooth yesterday and then you went and pulled one of yours out, too, is no reason why you have to fall down when she does," was the disgusted comment of their eight-year-old brother.—Columbus Dispatch.

AMONG THE THEATRES

COYLE—CHARLEROI

Naturally enough one of the big theatre was the appearance of the Coyle, Memorial Day of May 22. In her remarkable and unusual characterization of a factory girl in "The Eternal Grand." This was a return engagement and it was greeted by a monster throng. The first picture play of the week was the Fox drama "The Love Mask" with Stuart Holmes and Dorothy Bernard. On Wednesday the Metro production, "The Come-Back" was featured, with Harold Lockwood and May Allison in the leading roles. "The Love Mask" was the Thursday Paramount attraction with Cleo Ridgely and Wallace Reed. Then on Friday is the great Chaplin comedy, "The Floorwalker." This Chaplin release is to be the first of a series that in all probability will be shown at the Coyle. A variety program will be presented by Manager R. S. Coyle Saturday. Coming soon is the inimitable Marguerite Clark in "Molly Make Believe," a charming drama in which Miss Clark appears at her best.

MAJESTIC—CHARLEROI

Probably the reigning attraction of this week at the Majestic theatre in point of interest to the theatre-goer would be that of the Billie Burke picture tonight (Friday) "Peggy." Billie Burke is one of the best known actresses on the American stage and an ever popular woman. On Monday at the Majestic Daniel Carson Goodman's latest drama was pictured. It was "Love's Toll," presenting Rosetta Brice as the woman who stumbled and Richard Buhler as the man from whose lips the cup of trust and happiness is dashed by one whom he held in closed regard. On Memorial day the Triangle Fine Arts presented the youthful and popular Dorothy Gish in "Betty of Graystone," with Owen Moore as the leading man. A comedy was "Cinders of Love." Wednesday's big attraction was "The Social Highwayman." Then on Thursday came the presentation of "The Devil's Prayer Book," and Charles Chaplin in one of his famous comedies.

PALACE—CHARLEROI

The Palace bill the last of this week was extraordinary in many respects, following a good bill the first of the week. The big feature of it all was Charles Diamond, billed as "the greatest harpist in the world," and assuredly from his first night's work, one of the stars. His harp playing won for him the heartiest applause and praise. Diamond is a real harpist and knows how to please a crowd. Included in the bill with Diamond were some other artists worth while. Booked according to Manager Barnhart's idea direct from the Harris theatre, Pittsburg. The Bartlett Trio appeared as wholesale dealers in harmony and comedy. Their act was one of the big hits at the Harris in Pittsburg last week. The Faynes appeared with an unusual novelty creation that was amazing. The photodrama that "made Pittsburg talk," "Playthings of the Gods" was one of the moving picture features of the week.

NEW DAVIS—PITTSBURG.

The New Davis theatre will have many noted performers in a diversified program of high grade, refined vaudeville twice a day during the week which begins next Monday morning, June 5. Nelly V. Nichols, a singing comedienne, already a prize favorite here and as a star in musical comedy, will render a repertoire of character songs. Charles E. Evans a comedian who needs no introduction anywhere, will be supported by several other accomplished players in "A Forgotten Combination," a one-act comedy. Charles Hopper, former star of "Chimmie Fadden," in a comedy entitled "It's Up to You, William." His new act is said to be infinitely more enjoyable than the previous one, although the latter was one of the leading hits of the variety. Mosconi Brothers in dancing falshes of vaudeville, are to give an act that will rank with the best headliners. They are perhaps the most eccentric Terpsichorean artists in America today and in their specialty will introduce entirely original steps. These are three of the specially notable features in a program which will

ADVISER TO EIGHT MILLION PENNSYLVANIANS

Each day's mail brings thousands of letters to the various State Departments at Harrisburg from citizens who desire information on a variety of topics. Probably no Department head has a larger number of correspondents than Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, Commissioner of Health. The enforcement of the laws pertaining to the public health entail such an enormous amount of detail, and it is a matter of such great importance to the individual that this is not surprising.

Many letters are received from earnest correspondents, the texts of which are amusing. The following is an example:

Brush Valley, Pa., June 23, 1914.

"Laboratory of State Board of Health,
"Dear Sir: I had a horse to die poisoned from all indications by we do not know with what it was poisoned. I am sending to you the food of the stomach to be analyzed. It was there the trouble seemed to be. We gave her 'in her sickness Colic cure from 8 to 10 doses.
